

LONDON—When the Peace Conference meets in Paris, one of the most important questions certainly will be the ultimate disposal of Trieste.

The more one studies the various alternatives, the more convinced one is that the only just solution is for Trieste to be internationalized.

THIS CERTAINLY is the view of a large majority of the British and American observers who have studied the situation on the spot. Surely here is a grand chance for the United Nations Organization to show what it can do as trustee.

CHURCHILL and America will have a particular responsibility for ensuring that a just solution of the question is reached. Their decision to occupy Trieste last May placed the two powers in a position where the experience and intimate knowledge acquired during the occupation particularly qualify them to find the correct answer to the matter.

On Repatriation U.S. General Answers GPs On Protests

BRIE-Glen Dale V. Gaffney, commanding general of the Alaskan Division, USAF, Air Transport Command, has officially denied that protests raised by enlisted personnel at the Edmonton air base over slowness of repatriation home, are on solid ground.

APPROXIMATELY 150 of the 300 enlisted personnel still stationed at the U.S. air base here are protesting over the repatriation policy as applied to the USAF here, the chief complaint being they "have nothing to do."

General Gaffney's statement follows:

"To be sure that this alleged spokesman does not represent the attitude of the command. Every Wednesday, the division and base air inspectors hold a 'complaint' hour at which time any individual may voice his criticisms or 'gripes.' At all times, individuals have access to the base or division command. According to our records, no complaint on this matter has been made.

"SINCE THE start of demobilization the Alaskan Division has continually exceeded its quota of men to be shipped to their homes. And we're far ahead of most organizations in returning men to the states. As a result of this fast demobilization of military personnel, we have employed many more Canadian civilians, particularly in the Edmonton area.

"I realize that there are in other overseas theatres, there will, of necessity, be some dissatisfied personnel. That is, I am sure, but on the other hand, it must be recalled that it is completely impossible for us to simply walk up and leave such a large and valuable command as this in the hands of other millions of dollars. An efficient reduction is absolutely essential.

"WE ARE endeavoring to clean up our affairs and move as swiftly and efficiently as possible. That is, I am sure, but according to detailed plans, coordinated and approved by higher headquarters. By April 1, very few Americans will be stationed in Canada.

"Through various media, our troops have been continually informed of our progress in reducing this command in an orderly, intelligent manner. They have been cognizant of 'target' dates."

"I MUST BE REMEMBERED that the Alaskan Division serves Alaska. Plans sometimes fly high north in order to accommodate the needs of Alaskan operations. All return with full loads.

300 British Brides
Arrive at Halifax
HALIFAX, Jan. 14.—(CP)—More than 300 British war brides and their children, dependents of Canadian servicemen, arrived here today aboard the S.S. Staverdon, after a six-day voyage from England.

It was the largest group of overseas brides to arrive in Canada since the end of the war, and also the start of a full scale repatriation program which will see more than 35,000 British war brides from England and another 15,000 from Holland, Germany and other parts of the continent.

DESPITE THE COLD weather, the couples to hit Halifax today are the brides and children of the men of the ship to get their first glimpse of Canadian shores. The Staverdon arrived here in the early morning and anchored in the stream to await a full in the pale-blue winds before docking.

The ship had a complement of 800 persons. Among the dependents were 120 wives and 80 children of Canadian army personnel and dependents of members of the RCAF.

United States Urges World Police Force

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
LONDON, Jan. 14.—(AP)—James F. Byrnes, United States secretary of state, today called upon the first general assembly of the United Nations to "approve promptly" the creation of a special commission on control of atomic energy and to pledge land, sea and air forces to a world police force.

OPENING the first general assembly debate in the assembly, Mr. Byrnes spoke after the assembly broke a deadlock over the 18th and final vote on its important economic and social council.

Urging the assembly to approve the formula for the atomic commission drafted at the Moscow foreign ministers' conference, Mr. Byrnes declared:

"We must not fail to devise the safeguards necessary to insure that this great discovery is used for human welfare and not for the deadly human warfare."

"WE SHOULD BEGIN upon this task immediately. The establishment of a commission to deal with this problem is of the highest importance."

For Canada
30,000 Housing Units Annually
Said Maximum
WINNIPEG, Jan. 14.—(CP)—While estimating ranging up to 100,000 units annually had been made, the capacity of the Canadian construction industry was not in excess of 30,000 housing units a year, C. J. Nicholls, Toronto, president of the Canadian Construction Association, told that organization's annual convention today.

"That figure," he said, "was based on our knowledge of materials supply."

"Emphasis placed upon housing construction had, in the last few months, completely reversed the normal situation of housing production in relation to a higher ratio and the whole basis of supplies and materials had been upset."

"FOR INSTANCE," he said, "you could get a great many of roads and highways built in a very short time. But the materials for them are not available. It is completely impossible for us to simply walk up and leave such a large and valuable command as this in the hands of other millions of dollars. An efficient reduction is absolutely essential."

By WILLIAM BOSS

THE OFFICIAL STATEMENT said the confirming authority, after a thorough review of the proceedings of the military court which tried Brigade Führer Kurt Meyer, whereby he was found guilty and condemned to death in connection with the shooting of Canadian prisoners, but not guilty of issuing any direct order for such shootings, considers Meyer's degree of responsibility not such as to warrant the extreme penalty.

Overseas Mail Service

Many complaints have reached this office about the slackness of the overseas mail service, particularly with regard to Christmas parcels, between Canada and Europe.

Parcels are given of Christmas parcels sent from Edmonton to servicemen and servicewomen abroad taking forty days or more to reach their destination.
Some never arrive at all. Others, very carefully packed, reached Edmonton in practically a demolished condition.

The same thing is true of parcels sent by overseas servicemen and servicewomen to their relatives in this country. One birthday parcel, containing a valuable pair of antique cuff links, despatched from London in June, 1944, to reach Edmonton in August, has not turned up yet.

Similar slackness is observed in ordinary mail. The blue form letters, for example, sometimes take an inordinate time to travel between Canada and England.

This slackening off and these frequent disappearances of parcels represent a situation which is not good for either side. The comparatively few parcels which do reach servicemen who remain overseas are usually to be expected parcel post and small service as possible to the war effort.
Indeed, they should get an even better service because wartime shipping hazards have been removed.

The post office department would do well to check up carefully on inefficiency and what sometimes appears to be even worse.

Keep the Plants Producing

Again there are rumblings of the danger of interruption of the packing industry across western Canada. Few things could be more unwelcome at this stage than a tie-up of the plants which mean so much to economic recovery and the well-fare alike of farmers and townsfolk in the prairie provinces.

With a suspension of operations throughout a few months ago, emergency action was taken to keep the plants going.
The Dominion Government took over the industry in effect, and appointed a controller, who functioned well in the interim.
The difficulties between the companies and their employees.

This action was justified because of the damage that would have resulted had the dispute ended in a strike. The damage caused by a shut-down now would be less great. Federal and provincial officials should therefore be on the alert, and be required to make sure that the plants will not close down.

The immediate loss which a shut-down would throw upon the stock-grower is obvious. So is the reaction on the business community in effect, and the possible curtailing of supplies.

But the broader consideration must be forgotten. Canada is committed to deliver large consignments of meat to Britain and to the U.S.A. If the plants bargains are kept or not kept will be of importance alike to stock-growers and the packing industry. The time is coming when Canada will not hold the assured position it held in wartime as an exporter of meat. Denmark and other competing countries are coming to be production on an export basis. It won't do to overlook that change in the world supply situation.

They Can't Eat Drachmas

Greek wage and salary earners also want more, but not money. They demand better pay, but want the money to be paid in food, clothing and other commodities. The personal and family use. The reason? They don't know the value of the things these things today's money wages buy tomorrow. The drachma is not valued as it used to be, and it means less so fast that nobody can predict its buying power a day ahead.

The coin used by the Greeks is worth about 20 cents. Now it is worth only the despatch was written—at 175,000 of the drachma, value $1.47. If it hasn't lost ground in the meantime, it is worth about 380 drachmas worth as much in Athens now as one cent.

Greece is thus supplying an object lesson on the workings of inflation. A lesson which people in other countries can readily understand if they stop to think about the plight of a Greek who has a fixed income payable in the national currency, or any kind of income that is not derived by running his business. The only way a Greek could break even would be to hoist his wages or his prices as fast as the drachma goes down in value—or a bit faster.

That of course is impossible for any comparable proportion of the people, including all those who are not in business.
Hence these demand their pay in kind, not cash. That they will get what they demand is not likely—for what would be the sale of the goods to which they buy these supplies with drachmas worth less each day than they were the day before?

People in other countries—like the Greeks—work for things, not for money.
They take their pay in money only because the money will buy the things they need. So long as its buying power remains fairly constant, all goes well. But if products of the money go down, the buying power of the money goes down, and the tobacco on a slide. And naturally those who feel the pinch first and most severely are those who work for a set number of money units per day or week.

It isn't the "big shot" who has most to fear from inflation. It is the "little fellow" who has to live on a fixed income. He only has so much food and other necessaries as his wages or salary will pay for.
The plain fact is that Greek wages and salary earners and their families are on the verge of starvation—even though they are working steadily and getting as many drachmas in their pay envelopes as they ever got.

Eisenhower Mountain

"Castle Mountain," in the Banff national park, will hereafter bear the name of General Eisenhower. This is a fitting tribute from the people of Canada to the supreme commander under whose direction the Allied forces won the Axis power in the European theatre.

When the General pays his promised visit to the mountain he will see at once why it was christened "Castle" by the James Hector far back in the last century.
Something else he will also notice. It has been there a long time, and will be there through ages to come. His castle in Scotland is old, but an up-start in comparison, and when its stones crumble away the great mountain will still stand. The name carved in the heart of the Rockies will still rear its snow-crowned head among the clouds, an example and symbol of endurance.

There was a time when General Eisenhower had to stand like a rock against storms of criticism from those in his own country and elsewhere who were impatient at delay and demanded that Europe be invaded forthwith. But he had what it took to endure the fault-finding while he mustered the forces which he knew would be needed to crash the western front like a rock like an avalanche across Germany.

When the General surveys his mountain nameake.

Canadians will find the mountain so attractive that he will visit it often, and explore the great mountain area in which it stands.

There are hopes that the threatened steel strike in the United States may be averted. It is expected that the price of steel will be boosted from three to five dollars a ton. Better that than a shutdown of the industry. But of course that has become of the theory that mass production makes things cheaper?

Ottawa Surprised and Disappointed as

In Position Taken by Drew Government on Dominion-Provincial Conference. To Mix Oil and Water Would Be Simple Matter Compared to Fusing Present Proposals

By Grant Dexter of The Edmonton Bulletin's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Two words describe the effect upon the Dominion government and the senior officials of the late November and a final settlement by January at the latest. It was equally essential for all concerned to show as quickly as possible where they stood with respect to taxation, revenues, and overall policy, so that budgets could be planned and post-war problems met.

What happened was that no real discussions took place at the August meeting. At the November meeting several of the provincial premiers, for example—came forward with modifications of the Dominion proposals. But in no case were the proposed changes so radically different from the Dominion's plan as to make agreement impossible or even difficult.

Throughout these months, Mr. Drew kept his own counsel. He refused to be resumed Tuesday. The Dominion delegates, not to be outdone, refused to exchange information and to canvass various angles of the Dominion's proposals. These meetings of the experts went on until a few days before Christmas and were to be resumed Tuesday.

THE SCHEDULE THEN in the minds of the Dominion delegates is a general review of the Dominion-provincial problems in the future of mankind is at stake and—

As Greatest Population Shift in Human History is Under Way, Intense Winter Cold and Lack of Transportation Adds to Almost Incredible Hardship

From The Ottawa Citizen

The greatest population shift in human history is still taking place in Europe. Hundreds of thousands of human beings are drifting about the continent despite the efforts of the Allied authorities to rescue them and temporary homes for them in huts and barracks.

Accounts from correspondents who have met this flood of human misery in many places make public reading. The intense winter cold and the lack of transportation, particularly have not been barriers to any of those seeking homes in Germany or attempting to reach Palestine. These seek borders with cities such as Vienna and Budapest straying, thinly clad, penniless and quite often suffering from disease.

They arrive in wagon-trains jammed to overflowing with refugees, motor vehicles and on foot, the few possessions slung over their shoulders. They are mostly Jews, Poles, and other persecuted peoples, and despite check posts and frontier guards in the belief that they are being rescued, they are able to find their way.

ONE CANNOT EXAGGERATE the number that have started off on their own and are now drifting through the continent. For there is no doubt that 10 per cent of the population of Europe are now refugees. As they are virtually helpless, they are being taken care of by the governments of the countries through which they pass. In Hungary, for example, they are being taken care of by the government. In Austria, they are being taken care of by the government.

THESE CASES ARE DESTINED for displaced persons camps, but many of them are not going to stay there. They are being taken care of by the governments of the countries through which they pass. In Hungary, for example, they are being taken care of by the government. In Austria, they are being taken care of by the government.

COMPROMISE BETWEEN views to a variance is impossible. To mix oil and water would be a simple matter, compared to fusing these two sets of proposals. The surprise and disappointment at Ottawa and undoubtedly in many other parts of the Dominion, is that the Drew proposals are so different from the Dominion's plan as to make agreement impossible or even difficult.

As they are virtually helpless, they are being taken care of by the governments of the countries through which they pass. In Hungary, for example, they are being taken care of by the government. In Austria, they are being taken care of by the government.

THESE CASES ARE DESTINED for displaced persons camps, but many of them are not going to stay there. They are being taken care of by the governments of the countries through which they pass. In Hungary, for example, they are being taken care of by the government. In Austria, they are being taken care of by the government.

COMPROMISE BETWEEN views to a variance is impossible. To mix oil and water would be a simple matter, compared to fusing these two sets of proposals. The surprise and disappointment at Ottawa and undoubtedly in many other parts of the Dominion, is that the Drew proposals are so different from the Dominion's plan as to make agreement impossible or even difficult.

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
WETASKIWIN, Jan. 14.—Wetaskiwin Colonels showed a home crowd the calibre of puckhandling that has kept the Wetaskiwin team leading the Central Alberta Hockey League throughout the season when they hammered out a 12-2 win over Red Deer Ramblers Saturday night.

Gostick paced the Colonels with an outstanding performance that netted him a total of seven goals and one assist.

Wetaskiwin stepped up the pace in the second, Shantz, Barchyn and J. Jones drilling in singles and Gostick flapping the rubber in three times. A tally by Lester for the visitors put the count at 8-1 at the close of the heat.

In the final round Gostick scored Red Deer's second counter and Gostick and Douchie accounted for two more marks apiece.

Blackpool Moves Into Tie For North Soccer Leadership

By JOHN DAUPHINS
LONDON, Jan. 14.—(CP Cable)—Blackpool moved in to a point at the top of British soccer's league north Saturday, defeating Leeds 2-1 and stepping up level with Chesterfield, Everton and Sheffield United on games played.

The last three teams named were tied at four points with 31 points apiece. Despite Blackpool's improved position, however, they were no change in the league standing which, on the basis of goal averages as well as wins, still left the top four teams as Chesterfield, Everton, Sheffield and Blackpool, that order.

ENGLISH FOOTBALL association cup matches were played last Saturday night with no less than 70,000 spectators in the stadium at Blackpool. In the league match, 45,000 saw the Charlton Athletic strengthen its lead to six points by whitewashing West Ham United 3-0. It was the first straight without a defeat game for Charlton Athletic.

The ROAD LEADER

By Capt. HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

I Saw Today

This month will see a new high reached in the repatriation of Canadian servicemen from Europe. Present schedules call for the transport of 35,000 troops from Europe to Canada between Jan. 6 and Feb. 2, which is 13,000 more than the 42,000 who were returned to Canada during the month of December.

THIS IS CONSIDERABLY more than had been expected shipping would be provided for. Early in December I wrote a column on this subject based on the plans which had been explained to troops overseas early in November. Those plans called for the shipment of 15,000 men in November and 20,000 in December. As it turned out extra shipping was obtained and 27,170 returned in November and about 42,000 in December, which is more than I had expected.

Official figures which have been sent to me from official sources in Ottawa, indicate that even more servicemen have been returned since.

A plaque, made by members of the workshop of the Canadian Armoured Brigade in Holland, and carrying the insignia of the various divisions, corps and armies with which the 1st Army Tank Brigade Company served, was presented at the reunion dinner held at the Royal George hotel on Saturday night when members of the 1st Armoured Brigade Company RCASC were gathered for the first time since demobilization.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION: What do you think of the Chamber of Commerce submission to the government regarding transportation costs to the north?

THE ANSWERS: HARRY PHILIPSON, clerk: The attitude of the Chamber is easy to understand. If lower rates and better service are obtained then there will be a favorable reaction to this city.

GORDON HARRISON, student: There is no doubt that both lower rates and better facilities are essential. I heartily approve of the Chamber's action.

SAM HORLICK, traveller: The time has come for implementation of the Chamber's suggestion. I think there should be no delay in bringing about the condition advocated.

U.K. Labor Policy Is Claimed Tory

"The foreign policy of the British Labor government is a Tory policy," declared Ben R. Swank, provincial leader of the Labor Progressive party speaking at the Sunday veteran and labor forum held at the Queen's hotel. "This policy does not represent the interests of the British working class. It is a policy which is based on a balance of power, anti-Soviet intrigues, support for a western bloc, an intensified trade war and eventually flowing from all this a new war."

THE ALTERNATIVE to this is a policy of going forward in association with the new rising democratic forces in the world, taking the path of international political and economic cooperation on the basis of the joint leadership of Britain, the Soviet Union, and the United States. It is important to note that the future of Britain depends more upon its relation with the Soviet Union than upon any other single factor in the international situation, he claimed.

"THERE IS A VERY DEFINITE distinction between a Tory home policy. A government which will not grant freedom to India will not anticipate the British working class. There can be no fundamental social progress in Great Britain until the government is based on the foreign policy of the present Labor Government," Mr. Swank said.
